

JELLY GIANTS FAMILY HEAD INTO WEST END

A family of giant jelly babies is moving to the West End in time for Christmas. The installation of Italian sculptor Mauro Perucchetti's Jelly Baby Family in Marble Arch was approved by Westminster council last night. It has been lent by the Halcyon Gallery until next April as part of the council's City of Sculpture Festival. The resin figures include a 10.5ft daddy baby and a 7.5ft baby baby.