MARBLE-OUS!

ITALIAN SCULPTURE SHOW

Claudia Winkleman was among the famous faces at the launch of the Mauro Perucchetti exhibition at the Halcyon Gallery in Mayfair. Art lovers enjoyed a champagne reception to celebrate the unveiling of the Italian artist's new work in marble.

THE PRESS TRYING TO SPLIT US UP WAS DISTURBING KATIE AND PETER ANDRE OK! CELEBRATES THE FESTIVE SEASON WITH A TUDOR-THMED SHOOT AND A GOSSIP ABOUT SEX, CELBS AND MOVING

IT WAS A FRISKY JORDAN AND PETER AT THEIR LAST CHRISTMAS TOGETHER

Celebrating their fifth and what was to be their final Christmas together, Peter Andre and Katie Price marked the occasion with a roaring log fire, a mock beheading and naughty musings, in our exclusive Tudor-themed shoot: 'I'd like to see the New Year in with a bang, if you know what I mean. I'd love to be having sex and time it just right so that I finished at the stroke of midnight,' Pete told us. However, the ever-contrary Katie had totally different ideas on how to celebrate the end of 2008. 'My brother is having a fancy dress party. I might go as Danger Mouse,' she mused.

It's not often you see Victoria Beckham shopping in Lidl and Primark in a bid to save the pennies. Not ever, in fact. Posh lookalike Chanelle Hayes donned the Louboutins and diamonds – or the Dolcis and Elizabeth Duke – to nab a bargain in a spoof shoot to see how Victoria may cope if desperate times ever call for desperate measures. For a start, there'd be an end to Armani briefs: 'You can get six packs of Y-fronts for a fiver down Peckham market – although David says they chafe a bit,' a credit-crunched 'Posh' told us.
